PROMINENT GEORGIAN CLAIMED BY DEATH

Solicitor Charles D. Hill Has Answered Last Call.

WAN NOTED AS A LAWYER

While Addressing a Jury in the Superior Court of Fulton County Well Known Georgian Was Stricken with Fatal Illness.

After lingering for three days between life and death, Solicitor General Charles Dougherty Hill, a prominent Georgian, an able jurist, a faithful citizen, came to his end at his home, 664 Piedmont avenue, Atlanta, Ga., on Friday morning.

It was while making a speech to a jury in the superior court room on Tuesday morning that Mr. Hill was seized with an attack of indigestion. He was taken immediately to his residence and sank into an unconscious state, remaining that way until Thursday morning, when he appeared to be improving. He seemed to know his friends and talked a few moments to Miss Ridley, of LaGrange.

In the afternoon he again lapsed into a comatose condition and continued to sink lower and lower until life departed.

At the bedside during the last moments were Judge Benjamin H. Hill, of the court of appeals, his brother; Mrs. Benjamin H. Hill, Harvey Hill, his son, and the attending physicians, Drs. Ellis and Goldsmith, and Ridley, of LaGrange.

Seldom has Georgia produced a more brilliant speaker, a harder student of law, a more successful criminal practitioner, a more conscientious public prosecutor than Charles Dougherty Hill, the youngest son of the Hon. Benjamin Harvey Hill, one of Georgia's greatest statesmen—whose oratory carried his hearers of their feet and whose logic convinced all who heard him.

"Like father, like son," is an old proverb, but true in his case.

2,500 WALK OUT.

Strike on Missouri Pacific Mountain System.

Approximately 2,500 men employed in the mechanical trades on the Missouri Pacific Mountain system walked out in sympathy with the striking machinists. The order to quit work was telegraphed to the boiler makers, blacksmiths and pipefitters by the heads of their international union after the machinists had failed to settle their trouble with General Manager Sullivan, of the Missouri Pacific.

The principal shops of the roads are located at Sedalia, Mo., and Little Rock, Ark. Shops are also maintained at many other points, including Texarkana, Paragould, Van Buren and McGehee, Ark.; Lake Charles and Ferriday, La.

The union men say that the road will not be able to operate their locomotives more than a week without the men who quit work.

BIG CONFLAGRATION.

Oil Tank Catches Fire—Blaze Spreads to Buildings.

A fire which started in the Chicago and Alton freight houses on the river front and which spread rapidly to neighboring structures of like character, caused a loss of more than $500,000 at East St. Louis, Ill.

The blaze was of no significance when discovered, but it soon spread to ten tank cars of oil, which exploded, hurling blazing fluid in all directions. The oil set fire to the Baltimore and Ohio freight warehouses, covering a block. A score of oil tanks in it exploded with a roar that was heard for miles.

A hotel and row of boarding houses were also destroyed. No loss of life has been reported.

R. A. Long, a Kansas City capitalist, has donated $50,000 to Transylvania University, according to an announcement made at the institution in Lexington, Ky. Mr. Long is credited with being the originator of the Brotherhood of the Disciples of Christ.

SLEW HIS SWEETHEART.

Jealous Rage Seized Young Farmer Near LaFayette, Ind.

Jealousy at the attentions being paid his sweetheart by another man is said to have prompted Martin Robinson, a prominent young farmer, to shoot and kill Miss Grace Eller, 17 years old, who is one shot at Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and with her.

She was shot in the back, and it is not known if she was injured. The tragedy occurred at Montmorencie, 10 miles north of LaFayette, Ind. Robinson, who has not been found, is said to have told a neighbor after the shooting that he intended to commit suicide.
